

Love the skin they're in

www.gorgeousguineas.com

Pig Pots

When the time comes to say goodbye to our little friends, the departure of a much loved guinea can leave a big hole in your heart. There are a number of ways that you can remember your guinea, but my favourite is to create a Pig Pot for each one.

The idea of a Pig Pot came from my partner Sam, when one of my guineas died and we were about to move house. He suggested burying the guinea in a nice pot and putting an appropriate plant on the top. That way, you can create a lasting reminder of your guinea that is as individual as they were. Once created, the Pig Pot can be taken with you when you move.

Here is an example showing Scruffy's Pig Pot. Nothing fancy, but the plant reflects what a bright, beautiful and happy pig she was. It sits on the patio outside the back door and makes me smile every time I see it, reminding me of what a happy life Scruffy had.

